Information sheet for border workers and their non-employed family members concerning compulsory health insurance in Switzerland

Since the bilateral agreements between Switzerland and the European Union (EU) and its member states regarding the free movement of persons have taken effect, border workers and their non-employed family members (spouses and children) are subject to the regulations governing compulsory health insurance in Switzerland. If the spouse is working in the country of domicile, he/she as well as the children are subject to the legal regulations of their country of domicile. In this case they do not have to be mentioned on the registration form.

Border workers from neighbouring states (Germany, France, Italy or Austria), have the possibility to request an exemption from the compulsory health insurance in Switzerland, providing they can prove that they have adequate cover in their country of domicile and in Switzerland (option right). This option has to be taken up within three months of the date of validity of the border workers permit. Further, the option can only be chosen once. Border workers from other countries do not have this option and are subject to the compulsory health insurance of Switzerland. The list of current premiums can be found under www.priminfo.ch (Prämienübersicht EU/EFTA). Information on premium reduction for persons with compulsory health insurance in Switzerland can be found at www.svasg.ch (Prämienverbilligung).

There is an exception for cross-border workers from the Principality of Liechtenstein who are subject to compulsory health insurance in their country of residence (Principality of Liechtenstein).

The municipal supervisory authorities for social security at place of employment are responsible for controlling compliance in respect of compulory insurance. For the purpose of clarifying the insurance obligation, border workers have to register with the municipal supervisory authority for health insurance at the place of employment within 20 days of taking up employment!

In order to be able to check compliance with the insurance obligation or the application for exemption, the municipal supervisory authority for health insurance at the place of work requires the following documents:

Health insurance in Switzerland

- copy of your current insurance policy (with EU/EFTA premiums)
